MARQUIS HERBERT MECHAM AND MYRTIE HEWARD

Marquis Herbert Mecham was born December 15, 1882, in Wallsburg, son of Lewis Mecham and Esther Herbert. He married Myrtie Heward on May 22, 1913. The marriage was solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple on August 22, 1932. She was the daughter of John L. Heward and Mary Ann Gilby, born at Draper on April 10, 1892. He died April 28, 1956. Myrtie lives in Salt Lake.

In his youth he lived on the Provo River bottoms, now covered by Deer Creek Reservoir, and herded sheep on the hillsides until winter, when they were taken back to Wallsburg. Most of the time barefoot, he attended school about three months out of the year. Later his father sold the bottom ground.

Marquis farmed all his life. Always the owner of a fine team of horses, he farmed and became a logger in the mountains in the winter.

Every spring he sheared sheep with the Wallsburg "gang." He drove a school bus for lower Wallsburg before the road was oiled. When mud or snowdrifts stopped the bus, he hitched his team to the wagon or sleighs so the children got to school.

Their children are: Elden Russell, Pearl, Fern, Thelma, Orval H., Evelyn and Myrtie Bernice.

They have 31 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Former Orem High student represents Utah in program

Meridee Mecham learned firsthand what deoxyribonucleic acid looks like and the process used to separate it.

DNA, the building block of life, was isolated and sequenced as part of a two-week educational program at the University of California in Berkeley, Calif., in which the former Orem High School student participated.

The genetic material of living organisms, DNA, was one of many laboratory experiments

Mecham participated in.

Mecham represented the state of Utah as one of 63 high school students nationwide who participated in the High School Honors — Life Sciences Program.

She also learned many other techniques in modern biology while participating with professional scientists.

A resident of Wallsburg, Mecham is currently enrolled at the University of Utah and majoring in science.

Merchant

Leonidas Moses Worthen Mecham was born July 22, 1804, at Canaan, Grafton County, New Hampshire, son of Joshua Mecham and Permelia Chapman. He married Elvira Derby on November 28, 1827. She was born in Grafton County to John Derby and Sarah Currier on November 6, 1811.

Shortly after their marriage, Moses and Elvira moved to Mercer, Pennsylvania. Here seven children were born. Then they moved to Kendrick, Iowa, where their child America was born. The glowing reports of the Oregon country started them westward.

In Iowa he engaged in the mercantile business, being very successful and prosperous. During 1838 he learned that his father's family and Joshua had joined the Church. Moses became much worried, for he had seen what bloodthirsty mobs had done where he lived.

He studied hard the LDS belief to see why his people had joined, but it seemed he could not obtain a testimony to the truthfulness of the gospel. One night he startled the members of his family by speaking in tongues. They had never heard such a thing before and supposed that he was delirious. While speaking in tongues he took the old family Bible and read from it, still speaking in tongues. His wife understood and started reading the passages to the family as he turned from one section to another in the Bible, all dealing with the restoration of the gospel. This experience convinced them that the gospel was true and they decided to apply for baptism. They traveled to Columbus, Adams County, Illinois, and early in March, 1839, he and members of his family were baptized by Elder James Tomlinson at Nauvoo, Illinois.

After joining the Church, Moses and his family returned to Lee, Iowa. During this period he met persecution along with the rest of the saints, losing his mercantile business and other possessions. Moses, along with his father, Joshua, and his son, Clinton, had the privilege on several occasions to act as a bodyguard for the Prophet Joseph Smith.

On June 29, 1849, Moses was ordained a Seventy by Elder Joseph Young. On December 30, 1845, he and Elvira were sealed to each other, along with other members of their family, in the Nauvoo Temple.

They moved to Van Buren, Iowa, then to Council Bluffs. In 1853, Moses, Elvira and the unmarried children moved to Utah Valley, settling at Lehi, where he had charge of the toll gate at Jordan Narrows for about a year. Their last child was born there.

From Lehi they moved to Provo, where Moses taught school several years. He had his feelings hurt through a misunderstanding with a leader in the Church, which he couldn't bring himself around to forgiving. This caused him to lose the gift he had been blest with from the time of his conversion, that of speaking in tongues. He quit teaching school and moved to the mouth of Provo Canyon as toll keeper. Here he planted an orchard and garden. The young trees just started to bear when a flash flood cut a channel through his little farm and destroyed most of it.

This experience humbled him and gave him the spirit of forgiveness, thus helping him to become happy again. His health was very poor the last years of his life.

A few nights before his death he told his daughter Martha that she could speak in tongues if she desired, which she did immediately, strengthening the testimony of the family.

He studied hard the LDS belief to see why his people had joined, but it seemed he could not obtain a testimony to the truthfulness of the gospel. One night he startled the members of his family by speaking in tongues. They had never heard such a thing before and supposed that he was delirious. While speaking in tongues he took the old family Bible and read from it, still speaking in tongues. His wife understood and started reading the passages to the family as he turned from one section to another in the Bible, all dealing with the restoration of the gospel. This experience convinced them that the gospel was true and they decided to apply for baptism. They traveled to Columbus, Adams County, Illinois, and early in March, 1839, he and members of his family were baptized by Elder James Tomlinson at Nauvoo, Illinois.

After joining the Church, Moses and his family returned to Lee, Iowa. During this period he met persecution along with the rest of the saints, losing his mercantile business and other possessions. Moses, along with his father, Joshua, and his son, Clinton, had the privilege on several occasions to act as a bodyguard for the Prophet Joseph Smith.

On June 29, 1849, Moses was ordained a Seventy by Elder Joseph Young. On December 30, 1845, he and Elvira were sealed to each other, along with other members of their family, in the Nauvoo Temple.

They moved to Van Buren, Iowa, then to Council Bluffs. In 1853, Moses, Elvira and the unmarried children moved to Utah Valley, settling at Lehi, where he had charge of the toll gate at Jordan Narrows for about a year. Their last child was born there.

From Lehi they moved to Provo, where Moses taught school several years. He had his feelings hurt through a misunderstanding with a leader in the Church, which he couldn't bring himself around to forgiving. This caused him to lose the gift he had been blest with from the time of his conversion, that of speaking in tongues. He quit teaching school and moved to the mouth of Provo Canyon as toll keeper. Here he planted an orchard and garden. The young trees just started to bear when a flash flood cut a channel through his little farm and destroyed most of it.

This experience humbled him and gave him the spirit of forgiveness, thus helping him to become happy again. His health was very poor the last years of his life.

A few nights before his death he told his daughter Martha that she could speak in tongues if she desired, which she did immediately, strengthening the testimony of the family.

MOSES MECHAM AND ELVIRA DERBY

Leonidas Moses Worthen Mecham was born July 22, 1804, at Canaan, Grafton County, New Hampshire, son of Joshua Mecham and Permelia Chapman. He married Elvira Derby on November 28, 1827. She was born in Grafton County to John Derby and Sarah Currier on November 6, 1811.

Shortly after their marriage, Moses and Elvira moved to Mercer, Pennsylvania. Here seven children were born. Then they moved to Kendrick, Iowa, where their child America was born. The glowing reports of the Oregon country started them westward.

In Iowa he engaged in the mercantile business, being very successful and prosperous. During 1838 he learned that his father's family and Joshua had joined the Church. Moses became much worried, for he had seen what bloodthirsty mobs had done where he lived.

TERRY L. MECHAM AND TANYA MARIE NICOL MECHAM

My name is Terry L. Mecham, named by my real Father. My nickname is George, which was given to me by a very close friend in High School. I was born in the old Wasatch Co. Hospital May 5, 1951, delivered by Dr. Draper. I lived in Wallsburg, Utah, until my Father died. We then moved to Heber City.

I married Tanya Marie Nicol from Midway, Utah. She is a charming and wonderful lady. She is a great wife and a very good mother to our children. We have four children, Casey age 9, Jill age 6, Lindsey age 4, and Lora age 2. They were all blessed by their

Grandfather Nicol.

My mother is Margie Mecham. My mother has always been a good mother, sincere and a good heart, with lots of love. She always treated my brother and me as equals on everything. My father died when I was 2 years old and my brother was 6 months old. He drowned in the Provo River. The only thing I can remember about him is, one winter morning he packed me on his shoulders and we hunted rabbits in Wallsburg. He showed me where a cotton-tail rabbit had sat in the snow.

I have one brother, his name is Garn Jay. He lives in Oregon and we are really close to each other. I have lived in Rangely, Colorado and Kearns, Utah. I went to Wasatch High School for my education and Utah Trade Tech. in Provo, Utah. I have never been in the Military. When the Vietnam War started, I was ready to serve my country and freedom, but they never called me.

My hobbies are baseball, gardening and hunting and just being in God's beautiful mountains, which belong to all the people, especially to the ones who take pride and pleasure while being in them and show wildlife respect and kindness. I love hunting and I only take what my family and I can eat. Waste not, want not.

I worked at the Heber Lumber Co. for 7½ years and enjoyed a lot of nice people that I met. Heber has a lot of good people in it and is a beautiful place to live and raise a family.

I, Tanya Marie Nicol Mecham, was born in Provo, Utah on Dec. 13, 1957. My parents are Alma and Olga Nicol of Midway, Utah. I am the third to the oldest of 4 daughters, Sandra, Lynda and our youngest sister, Diana. We moved to Midway in 1970.

I attended Timpanogos grade school in Provo. My mother taught a Special Ed. course there. We then moved to Midway. It was a little harder going to school and making a change in my life. I attended Wasatch Jr. High School and then Wasatch High from which I graduated.

I married Terry L. Mecham (George) at the age of 18 on July 3, 1976. We have four happy children, Casey, Jill, Lindsey (Lindy) and Lora. Lora is our spunkiest one. I guess she'll put us through our last final test of a 2 year old.

George and I love to go hunting together. We try not to miss one deer season without each other. We also enjoy camping with the family. Just load 'em up and off we go. We find peacefulness and closeness with each other when we do things as a family. I guess being in the mountains is our favorite way. I enjoy hiking, tubing down the river, sun tanning, sewing and art work. I drew the cover of our school yearbook in Jr. High School. I find it restful drawing and hope to do more of it as the kids get older. I also like playing the clarinet. I became one of the best players in my class. As time went on I lost interest in it, but I'd like to pick it up again and get back into the swing of it.

We've had and are still having a happy life together. There'll be plenty of more things to come as our kids and we grow up together.
